The following observations were made at Zatec Airfield slightly after mid-afternoon on 21 July 1955:

Three MIGs were alerted at the end of the runway. One MIG (Nr. MF 49) nearby was being readied by mechanics for a flight. Also observed were the usual number of MIGs (about 90) divided into three groups, each of regimental size; a Tokan-type radar which had been put in place, and a dummy aircraft (un faux avion). The concrete work was completed.
